

Something Different, Something Needed: Each month you receive one of these newsletter things. Each month, I write about something that is on my mind. Each month, I hand out the newsletters and then I pick up 75% of them that are left because people don't take them home. So, in an effort to get you to read this thing, I am asking a student a month to write a little article about what is happening in their life. Below is the first installment. The question asked, "What do I want God to do in my life this summer?" Enjoy!

Being the typical girl that I am with insecurities, hopes and wants, I could pray for God to make me gorgeous over summer. You know, tighten up those thighs, get a little taller, and develop a fabulous tan so I can come back to Coronado my junior year looking amazing. Possibly to boost my image, I could pray for God to give me the money I want to buy all the necessities like clothes, a car, all the new fancy gadgets of today. I could pray for God to give me a talent as a rock goddess or an art princess. I could pray for God to take me away from this forsaken place I call home, or ask him to put a sign that says, "Go this way" or even "proceed with caution" would be great. Many times we pray to God to ask for things. "God, if you can just do this one thing for me..." Well the truth is, God doesn't do it for us, he guides us and shows us how to do it for ourselves. We often feel too much pride to ask for help, but when we go home and pray to God, that pride is defeated. So the question remains, what do I want Jesus to do in my life this summer? What I really, really want is Jesus to help me and to make an impact. Help you, help me, help them. I want him to provide answers, create questions, and reveal truth. I want Jesus to thrust upon FBCS a revolution this summer.

May 16 & 17: Admit it, you absolutely love the weekend. No school, you get to sleep in, stay up a little later than usual, etc. Well, this weekend is slammed with stuff. It starts Friday night: we are serving at the church's prom from 6PM-10:30PM. We will then chill for a while before we go to chill on the ice at Oceanside Ice Arena for the last broomball experience of the school year from Midnite-1:30AM. Go home, get rested up and then attend the 1st annual Aquatico Awards Banquet on Sunday, May 18th from 6PM-8PM. Dinner will be served, the band will play and various awards will be handed out. Like I said, this weekend is slammed with stuff.

The Wave Newsletter: May 2008

meigh 2k ate

Sun	Mon	Tue	Wed	Thu	Fri	Sat
				1	2	3
					Jr. Highers to Tonto Rim: Willing Workers Weekend Experience
4 Celebrate what Jesus has done 4 you!	5	6	7 Lyndsey Miller's B- Day today!	8 Alert: EMAIL TAX BEGINS 2DAY!		10 Church golf tourney: hit'em long & straight!
11 Give your mom some love today!	12 	13	14 Big Idea: Hit the word!	15 Wish Mandy Russell a Happy B-Day	16 High schoolers help at Prom, then Broomball ($5)	17 Happy B- Day Abby Eccles!!
18 Amber Milano's B-Day To- day	19 1st Annual Aquatico Awards were last night!	20 Kody Holmes's Birthday	21 NO LIVE- DENESDA Y NITE STUFF	22
25 Pray for your friends today!	26 Hit the pool, grill some brats, enjoy!	27	28 Skoolz out for the sum- mer!	29 	30 Sky Cap's Birthday Today!	31
					So-Cal Trip This Weekend!	